DIPLOMA IN MIGRATION AND TOURISM

DIPLOMA IN MIGRATION AND TOURISM

Today we are all part of international community and in many ways, living in a world that is connected through people movement.

Migration and Tourism have helped countries develop its human resources. Migration enhances the social and cultural lifestyle while at the same time making economic contributions. It also promotes tourism and provides labour for the travel, tourism, hospitality and catering sectors. While Tourism may be a temporary feature of migration, its benefit to any country cannot be ignored. In some countries Tourism is a major revenue earner and provider of largest number of jobs. There is a nexus that exist between these interrelated phenomena that is often forgotten by policy makers. Other areas of benefit include sports, entertainment and technology.

Course Rationale

The course is as a result of nearly four years of work in studying the emerging issues in Migration. Over the years there have been many changes in migration policies of countries such as Australia, Canada, New Zealand, USA and UK. These changes have been in response to economic, political, social conditions and also due to reports relating to fraudulent activities and back-door approach used by would-be migrants and some individuals and businesses providing migration services.

Migration is perhaps one of the talked about topics in every home. People migrate, either temporarily or permanently all the time. People movement is an international phenomenon.

The course is about empowering the community and students with knowledge so that they avoid pitfalls and avoid falling victims to fraud. It is also about preparing individuals for a career in migration.
